Kids at Heart a charity lunch

Anyone who does anything to help a child is a hero to me.

—Fred Rogers

At Sacred Heart Children's Hospital, our patients and their families are heroes. They persevere everyday, under the toughest circumstances and longest odds.

That's why Sacred Heart Children's Hospital and Providence Health Care Foundation are dedicated to giving all children the chance to live healthy lives, regardless of ability to pay.

Sacred Heart is the only full-service children's hospital between Seattle and Minneapolis, caring for more than 250,000 children over the past 16 years. Our dedicated team of over 120 pediatric specialty physicians cares for the most critically ill and injured children in our region.

Since 2006, Kids at Heart has raised more than $1.35 million—money that helped build a new 24/7 pediatric emergency center, purchase specialized equipment for our Neonatal Intensive Care Unit and pediatric cardiac patients, and launch a new mental health program for kids.

This Year's Focus: Andrew Rypien Hospital-based School Program

Many children are thrilled to have time off from school. But when they're missing class because of extended stays in the hospital, that's another subject.

School is a major part of a child's life, and being away from that daily routine can be stressful. Sacred Heart Children's Hospital offers academic support to kids from kindergarten through high school, as well as GED and college resources. School-based activities are offered in a hospital classroom and at the bedside when patients are unable to leave their rooms.

Staying connected with classmates and keeping up with homework helps young patients feel empowered and in control, even when facing serious illness.

The school program is only able to survive because of generous community donations. Please help school stay in session at Sacred Heart Children's Hospital by attending Kids at Heart!
